4 reasons to choose
SAP Concur for tax management.

How could taxes possibly get more complicated? .....

Here, we'll show you.

Tax digitalization is becoming the norm in governments all over the world. And when all those governments decide to do something, you have to adjust. Like managing a whole new set of constantly changing requirements.

What's driving this move to digitalization?

Governments with aging tax systems (meaning most governments) are struggling to keep up with shifting business models – and tax organizations are pushing to improve efficiency, accuracy, costs, and more.

At the same time, the prevalence of digital tech allows governments and their associated tax organizations to easily reimagine how tax functions and processes work. So it makes sense that they would want to automate workflows and alter requirements for efficiency.

This isn't happening everywhere, is it?

No, not everywhere, but it will be soon. The pace of change obviously varies in different markets, but momentum is growing. Digital tax document compliance mandates are already in place in various countries from Mexico, Chile, and Brazil to the UK, Italy, India, China, and Japan. And pilot programs and mandate plans are popping up in the US, Australia, and across Europe.

Naturally, your travel, expense, and invoice processes – and their related systems – have a significant impact on how you take on your digital transformation. So when your finance team is looking at an AP system or when your travel team is evaluating a new solution, it's important that you pay attention and it's critical that you choose the right solution.

Why should SAP Concur be on your shortlist?

Only one platform delivers the tax management solutions that keep up with changing requirements; keep you ahead; and keep finance, IT, and travel teams happy. That's SAP Concur, and here are the reasons why.

The process is covered.

Any gaps in your process – or in the system you use to manage it – create potential data problems, delays, and costly mistakes. So a complete, end-to-end system is key. And that’s where SAP Concur excels.

It starts with getting the right data, and that means minimizing manual data entry wherever possible.

- For expenses, you need accurate and up-to-date digital receipts. Like electronic receipts that come directly from vendors. And apps that allow employees to snap photos of receipts and automatically turn those photos into itemized charge data.
- For invoices, SAP Concur has you covered, too – reaching across data formats, methods of sharing, and country-specific validation options.

This entire process is managed in one system, so it’s not only fast and effective, it gives you all the data you need for precise reporting every step of the way.
